MEDIATION ACCREDITATION COURSES

Conflict is a fact of life. It happens at work, in school, at home, within your community. Even if you try to do everything to prevent it, conflict still happens. The best way to survive through a conflict situation is to learn how to face it head-on. The CoRe Group Foundation is offering various courses to help transform your mindset about conflict. All courses are designed to be experiential and participatory with the intent of achieving integrated learning. The skills that are introduced provide more than just conflict management tools but also general life skills. Lectures, group interaction and dyads are utilized for optimal learning. For those who wish to become accredited mediators of the Office of Alternative Dispute Resolution, the CoRe Group provides this 80-hour accreditation course in 3 levels In keeping with the Department Circular 049 of the DOJ on the accreditation of ADR Provider Organizations and training standards of mediators.
